Resume

The Lagoon Seventy 7 is a catamaran over 23 meters in length that represents a significant shift for Lagoon towards luxury and elegance. The most renowned names in the industry collaborated on its design, such as VPLP, Patrick le Quément, and Nauta Design. Their objective was to create a catamaran where harmony between interior and exterior spaces prevails, without compromise, with innovation serving comfort and life at sea.

On the exterior, the Lagoon Seventy 7 offers connected spaces, extending from the aft beach to the forward trampoline. The massive flybridge provides an impressive additional living area while being seamlessly integrated with the boat. The forward cockpit is directly accessible from the deck or the saloon, offering breathtaking views of the horizon. The large hull windows allow light to flood the interior spaces. Optionally, direct access to the sea from the owner's suite is possible through a side door, creating a private beach area.

On the interior, the elegance of details and finishes meets refined materials to provide a comfortable and harmonious interior. The optimized layout creates a true living space that is spacious and bright. The saloon features large windows and offers exceptional headroom, providing an extraordinary panoramic view. The true owner's suite is separate from the rest of the vessel and allows sea access with an optional private beach. The space is adaptable, allowing for an additional private area to be created for the owner's suite, directly connected to the saloon and forward cockpit. Different layout versions are offered, with 3, 4, or even 5 guest cabins, each equipped with an island bed, a desk, ample storage, and a private bathroom. A crew area provides more comfort and space, resembling a true apartment at the rear or front of the boat, depending on the chosen arrangement.

The Lagoon Seventy 7 embodies all of Lagoon's expertise. Creating a new model within an already rich range was a challenge undertaken by Lagoon to meet owners seeking a unique experience. To learn more about the construction of the Lagoon Seventy 7, you can visit the website seventy7.fr.
